

'A Productive Session' Says State Legislator

By CHARLES E. CHAPEL
Assemblyman, 46th District

When the recent special session of the State Legislature adjourned, all legislators were confronted with several problems.

First, the special session was called by Governor Brown because he was not satisfied with the relatively conservative program enacted during the regular session. None of us knew how long the special session would last, so we asked that you write us at our permanent address.

In my case, you should write me at Post Office Box 327, Redondo Beach. Nevertheless, some mail was sent to the capitol. The result is that I am busy trying to catch up on unanswered mail.

SECONDLY, requests for information about the exact wording of new laws were answered by all legislators as best they could, but a bill is only a tentative law until it passes both houses and is signed by the governor.

Again, all requests for bills, resolutions, or laws should be made to the Legislative Bill Room, Room 215, State Capitol, Sacramento 14. The two free copies will answer most questions quickly and avoid delay caused by writing to the legislator.

ALL OF my own bills requested by the 46th District for the various cities and incorporated areas which did not require budget appropriations were enacted into law.

Several bills were also carried by me on my own initiative. Only two of these were vetoed. One, dealing with blood tests for marriage for people 65, was openly vetoed by the governor. The second, listing the California State Police as peace officers, was pocket vetoed because several similar bills were also adopted and sent to Governor Brown.

In addition to those above, the governor vetoed several bills which would have been harmful to constituents of the 46th District, and he also signed another which annoys some people in the district and adjacent areas.

THE SOUTH Bay State College has been moved back into the South Bay, and many other good things were accomplished for the 46th District. Hence, I can look back to the first Monday in January and report that in total my long months in Sacramento have been very productive.

Scores of California's top newspapers, radio and television stations will compete for the coveted gold medals in the 1963 California State Fair and Exposition Press Awards at this year's State Fair, Aug. 28 through Sept. 9 in Sacramento.

CHARITY CHAIRMAN . . . Mrs. Edward Schneider (left) of Torrance will team with Mrs. Gerald Fagan of Miraleste to head the Harbor Area United Way residential campaign. Mrs. Schneider will serve as president with Mrs. Fagan as her vice president.

Mrs. Schneider Heads United Way Drive

Australian-born Mrs. Edward Schneider of Torrance will head the first residential United Way campaign in the Harbor Area, it has been announced by area chairman G. S. Williamson.

Assisting Mrs. Schneider in the forthcoming appeal will be vice president Mrs. Gerald Fagan of Miraleste.

Mrs. Schneider, who lives with her husband and two children at 3540 W. 185th St., is a member of the Yukon Elementary PTA.

In recent years, Mrs. Schneider has been active in the North Torrance Cub Scouts and last year was a unit chairman for Community Chest.

Mrs. Fagan, a secretary for the Delphean's study group, is a veteran worker. She resides with her husband and three children at 30648 Palos Verdes Dr. East.

United Way will conduct a single countywide, fund-raising appeal annually to support the Community Chest programs formerly supported by separate drives.

Warm summer days and balmy evenings invite everyone to enjoy one of America's favorite outdoor sports—the family picnic.

Whether you plan your next picnic for the patio, the nearest park, the beach, or along the highway, there is one cardinal rule to follow: to make a list of all the things you need, and check them off as you pack your supplies. Few memory lapses are more irritating than forgetting some essential item such as salt, or silverware, or coffee.

As with any meal, you'll want to include in your picnic the contrasts which add interest—contrasts of flavors, textures, colors and temperatures. If you're bringing a hot dish, keep it hot by wrapping it in several thicknesses of newspaper. This will eliminate re-heating it at the picnic site.

To provide a hot and hearty contrast to cold-cuts and crisp relishes, it's hard to top a pot of old-fashioned, home-baked pork and beans. Using an electric bean pot or a big electric roaster (for a good-sized crowd), you can bake and serve from the same convenient appliance.

The following recipe makes two quarts, about 6 good servings:

- EASY PORK AND BEAN BAKE
- 1 lb. dry beans, navy or Great Northern
 - 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
 - 1/4 teaspoon pepper
 - 1/4 cup molasses
 - 2 tablespoons vinegar
 - 1/4 cup catsup
 - 1/2 lb. salt pork
 - 2 tablespoons grated onion

Wash, drain, and soak beans overnight in cold water to cover. Simmer in same water until tender, 1 1/2 to 2 hours. Drain beans, but save liquid. Mix molasses, catsup, onion, spices and vinegar. Stir into beans and pour into bean pot. Cut salt pork into strips. Push pieces of pork into beans, saving a few strips for top. Add enough liquid to cover beans. Cover pot and bake in slow (300 degree F) oven about 4 hours. Uncover last hour of baking, and add more liquid if beans seem dry. No salt is needed if salt pork is used. If bacon is used, 1 to 2 teaspoons salt will be necessary to add to beans. For spicier beans, add a few drops Tobasco sauce and increase mustard before mixing with the beans. Follow directions on electric bean pot for time and temperature.

A hearty outdoor salad to bring to a picnic is the following, which can be prepared the day before and chilled overnight in refrigerator. This recipe makes 11 cups, and serves from 12 to 16:
